

Case Study

PARK RISE

The Client

This prominent former commercial office building has been converted to provide a selection of exceptional, bright modern one and two-bedroomed residential apartments.

The Solution

After carrying out a risk assessment we fast realised that this was no small task.

There were various issues that were taking place. We introduced security guarding by deploying 2 officers on site. We wanted to vandals to know there was a security presence on site.

We then gave the residents a direct phone number to call should they feel insecure.

This helped create trust between security and the residents.

The residents would then tip off security if they saw something suspicious.

By working together we found that the youth were outnumbered.

The trespassing stopped and the issue of anti-social behaviour was resolved.

Security built up a great relationship with all the residents and even took on the task of taking in their post and delivering it to them.

The Challenge

The client has contacted us to ask for a solution with anti-social behaviour. Youth are trespassing and also causing damage to properties.

There is drugs involved and cars are being broken into in the car park.

The client would like to find a solution that eradicates the vandalism aswell as reassuring the residents who live here.

The Results

The client was very concerned when they came to us. By introducing our security services along with teaming up with the residents, we found a very strong solution.

We used the insecurity of the residents and empowered them by giving them that extra security they needed.
